CODE OF CONDUCT

Code of Conduct

The flotation mill at Sary-Bulak.

1. Our principles

The Combine has mined and processed antimony in the Talas Alatau since 1961. We expect every employee, from the labour collective to the Management Board, to work safely, honestly and with respect for colleagues, the communities of Rudnik and the Chatkal works settlement, and the environment of the Talas valley.

2. Safety first

No production target justifies an unsafe act. Every employee has the right and the duty to stop work that is unsafe and to report it to the shift supervisor. Alcohol and drugs are forbidden at all sites; shift workers are tested before going underground or into the smelter.

3. Honest business

Employees must not offer, give, ask for or accept bribes, gifts or hospitality that could influence a business decision. Gifts worth more than 2,000 som must be refused or reported to the Security Department. The Combine does not sell through agents or intermediaries, and does not request advance payments or changes of bank details by e-mail. Any such request in the Combine's name must be reported.

4. Conflicts of interest

Employees must tell their manager in writing if they, or members of their family, have an interest in a supplier, customer or contractor of the Combine, and must take no part in decisions concerning it.

5. Company property and information

Equipment, vehicles, products and fuel of the Combine are used only for the Combine's work. Production, sales and financial information not published by the Combine is confidential and may not be passed to third parties, including the press, without the permission of the Press Service.

6. Respect at work

The Combine does not tolerate discrimination by nationality, religion, sex or age, or harassment of any kind. Employees are hired and promoted on their skills and experience.

7. Environment and community

Employees must follow the environmental rules of their site and report any spill, leak or damage to a tailings dam at once. The Combine supports the schools, polyclinics and houses of culture of its settlements and the technical lyceum at Chatkal.

8. Reporting concerns

Concerns about a breach of this Code can be raised with a manager, the Security Department or the trust line, tel. +996-39-2-21-40-99, which can be called anonymously. No employee will be penalised for a report made in good faith.
